The World's Most Unforgettable "S.-China-US Friendship and Cooperation Story" - Temple of Literature - World Wide Blog - World Wide Reader Network (Computer Version)

The most unforgettable "Sino-US friendly cooperation story" described in this article refers to the unique or incomparable love story of the two great countries that can make the world remember for thousands of years. On Christmas Day in 2024, China's largest official media (People's Daily and Global Times) launched an essay advertisement for "Sino-US Friendship and Cooperation Stories" to collect works for all groups and individuals at home and abroad. The deadline for the call for essays is June 20, 2025. Almost at the same time, China unilaterally opened up visa-free entry measures for up to ten days to American citizens. When the news came out, many overseas Chinese rushed to tell each other and cheered; while another group of "anti-American patriots" who had been noisy for a long time beat their chests and crook their feet and wailed. 2024 is really a magical year! If Beijing can really find or accept the most unforgettable "Sino-US Friendly Cooperation Story", it is really a great blessing for mankind in 2025, which can be congratulated.

As a blogger who likes travel and love stories, I am very excited about the essay collection of "Sino-US Friendship and Cooperation Stories". First of all, the courage, guts and speed of turning the mouth style of the essay collection are faster than the Sichuan opera, which is breathtaking. In the dream of the world of "a great change unprecedented in a hundred years", what magical things will not happen? I want to write several historical chapters praising the friendship between China and the United States, but I'm afraid that it will become a joke for netizens or an "overseas anti-China hostile force". Fortunately, I typed the keyboard in the free world. Otherwise, wouldn't it be an empty joy to involve the lawsuit of "disclosure of state secrets" or "national security"?

In fact, everyone wants to ask who is the audience of this essay? That is, it is written for smart people, stupid people or hypocritical people? Or is it for the people of mainland China to see? Does the American people watch it or Trump? Or write it for everyone in the world to read? I speculate that "Holy will" and assume that it is the latter, because Xi wants to establish a "community of human destiny"! Of course, we should have the world in mind and look to the future. This story will be passed on for generations.

Calm down, like counting the treasures, the story of the friendship between China and the United States is really hard to say. On February 22, 1784, the "Queen of China" set sail from New York and arrived in Guangzhou in the Qing Empire five months later. It became the first ship to arrive in China after the founding of the United States. The friendship or friction between China and the United States began to set sail.

More than a hundred years later, Chinese knowledgeable people vaguely understood the United States. The great leader, Empress Dowager Cixi, set the tone for the relationship between China and the United States, and became the future true and false emperors in this land of China. No matter what kind of ideology it is called, it is the motto of day and night. The old Buddha was far-sighted and realized that although the United States tried its best to help China, it did not need an inch of land to run schools and hospitals, but the values of modern human civilization such as freedom, equality, republic and constitutional government exported by the United States would take the life of the imperial court. Therefore, in any case, the United States is the great enemy of the Forbidden City; on the other hand, Russia, although it However, he wants money, land and the lives of the people, and has a great appetite, but as long as the imperial court obeys and gives everything he needs, the imperial power will be eternal and everything will be safe! That's why there is a saying that "there is no limit to the friendship between China and Russia". Of course, the "story of friendship and cooperation" in the middle of it is endless in Beijing. Why do you need to be born of such cowardly things and make people laugh?

The United States believes that the yearning for American democracy and freedom and the promise of founding the country propagated by the Communist Party of China and Mao in the 1940s have abandoned the national government ruled by corruption and authority. The United States' trade with China and all aid, which began in 1784, was wasted. Ordinary Chinese cannot forget and tolerate the "eight-nation allied forces" entering Beijing, including thousands of Americans coming to China. However, the mainland people basically know very little about the cause and effect of the incident. According to the record, there were many stories of the people of Beijing who welcomed the allied army, sent food to lead the way, and loved the people and supported the army. The people of the Forbidden City have always been afraid that you know the truth of things. Therefore, the most unforgettable story essay must start from here.

Back to the Empress Dowager, she declared war on 11 countries, detained embassy personnel, and secretly incited mobs to kill missionaries and their families: "Killing a foreigner will be rewarded for 50 taels, a foreign woman will be rewarded for 40 taels, and foreign children will be given 30 taels." The atrocities of the official incitation have spread to many provinces and cities. In addition, on the grounds of the security of the national court, spies or spies were arrested everywhere and tens of thousands of innocent civilians were killed. These medieval barbaric acts that undermined the international order aroused the indignation of all civilized countries at that time and triggered international rescue operations. In the park of the city where I live now, there is a monument built for the victims of the overseas rescue operation. Interested netizens can search Wiki to find the whole real process of this story.

The Qing Dynasty was overwhelmed and acted with words. In the end, he could only surrender and admit defeat. The action of the Eight-Nation Alliance ended with the signing of the Treaty of Xinchou by the Qing government and eleven countries; the text of the treaty and Annex 19 were officially signed on September 7, 1901, stipulating that the Qing government's compensation of silver was 450 million taels (based on one or two per person of the Chinese population at that time), with an annual interest of 4 percent, which was paid in thirty-nine years, and the principal and profit A total of more than 982 million taels, guaranteed by Chinese tariffs and salt tax, which is the "Gengzi compensation".

For the use of "Gengzi compensation", the United States set an unexpected example for all Chinese people, and almost all the compensation was finally returned to the common people. Various foundations have been established one after another to ensure assistance and support to China by legal procedures. The actions of the United States have also driven the wide participation of other countries or charitable organizations. Hundreds of top universities and hospitals have blossomed and bred all over mainland China, benefiting several generations and laying a solid foundation for China's modern civilization. If you only read the mainland media, especially in the past five years, you may be misled by some false information. These people are not described at the beginning of the above-mentioned essay. They are strange that "the heart of the American emperor is not dead". They deny or distort history and dare to make up any rumors. Because their organization has not yet decided to change its face to "Sino-US friendship", how dare Sandezi move without permission?

"In March 1906, American missionary Ming Enpu sent to U.S. President Theodore. Roosevelt suggested that the compensation should be used to set up education in China and support Chinese students to study in the United States. Roosevelt adopted this proposal and submitted a speech to Congress to sponsor Chinese education. On May 25, 1908, the U.S. Congress passed the relevant resolution. On December 3, 1907, in an enquiary to Congress, the President of the United States asked Congress to authorize the return of the Geng fee for education in China and send students to the United States as one of the ways. The proposal will be adopted in the United States. In 1908, the President of the United States signed a bill to refund $11.6 million in compensation, which won a lot of praise in American public opinion. In 1924, the U.S. Congress passed a resolution to return the remaining compensation of Gengzi.

The detailed record of the Tsinghua Alumni Association is as follows: "The compensation of the United States is more than 32 million taels, which is more than 24 million US dollars. The refund was divided into two installments. In 1908, the compensation of $11.6 million was returned, mainly for students in the United States and the construction of Tsinghua Academy. At that time, the purpose of the Geng fund was agreed to: to send Chinese students to colleges and universities in the United States for further study; to establish Tsinghua Academy (later renamed Tsinghua School) as a preparatory school for Chinese students to study in the United States; to set up a supervision office for students in the United States in Washington to formulate specific measures for sending students to the United States. In 1924, the compensation of 12.545 million US dollars was returned for the second time, and the "China Culture and Education Promotion Foundation" (or "China Foundation") was established. The Beiyang Government appointed a trustee board of directors consisting of 10 Chinese and 5 Americans to manage the fund, a considerable part of which was provided by scholarships to Tsinghua Academy."

After the Gengzi Incident, a group of far-sighted Western intellectuals realized that the brutal incident of the Bunker Corps was the result of ignorance, superstition and uncivil intelligence. They may not have seen the operation of the government and the charm of the Tianchao culture. At that time, most Americans had the ideal of Christians spreading the gospel. Since the end of the Qing Dynasty, batch after batch of missionaries from the United States or Europe have rushed to strange China, building a large number of churches, schools and hospitals. The Chinese Medical Foundation of the United States (established in 1914) is one of them. It belongs to the Rockefeller Foundation, which spent a lot of money to establish the Concord Hospital in Beijing (1914-1951) and trained a large number of elites of modern Chinese medicine. Its funding was forced to be terminated for political reasons until 1951.

Many people may be asking, since it is called the Chinese Medical Foundation and is regulated by law, where has it gone after 1951, or has it gone bankrupt or been embezzled? The fact is that it has been supporting medical progress in Hong Kong, Taiwan and Southeast Asia. Until 1980, it returned to mainland China again and has now funded 28 medical schools. Hundreds of medical talents rely on its funding to study or study abroad, which has driven the development of Chinese biomedicine and its integration with the world.

After entering the 1990s, various medical schools in the United States were opened to China, and a large number of scientific research funds began to allow Chinese medical institutions and individuals to apply, including the National Institutes of Health (NIH) and other famous institutions. In 1999, China applied to the NIH to join the Human Genome Research Program, becoming the sixth country to join the organization after the United States, Britain, Japan, Germany and France. On November 10, 1999, under the initiation of the people in the United States, he undertook the sequencing of 1% of the entire project, that is, the working sketch of 30 million base pairs on human chromosome 3. It is of great significance for China to join the Human Genome Program. In addition to making the plan more representative, this move has also become the starting point of large-scale international research cooperation in the field of life sciences, marking the beginning of China's biological science research to be at the forefront of the world.

The above can only be regarded as an example of countless cooperation between the two countries. Although it has a long history, it is still difficult for the whole world to understand and recognize the great Sino-US cooperation. Speaking of this, we must return to the theme of this article: What is the most unforgettable "Sino-US friendly cooperation story" in the world?

If you are a normal person with normal rational thinking, correct three views and not brainwashed by too much sauce culture, Da Lam will agree with the following arguments. None of them is the Wuhan pneumonia outbreak in 2019 or the plague of the century that hit the world and killed millions of people. I guess that the current organizer of the essay campaign in Beijing is reluctant to see such a theme, but I believe that history will definitely make a fair evaluation and judgment. Although the fact is that the timetable of the world is not in the hands of the author, most netizens will be witnesses of history.

During the epidemic, with the assistance of experts, I published many analytical articles on the causes, epidemic and vaccine research of COVID-19. He may also be one of the first bloggers to reveal the "Sino-US friendly cooperation story" to the public in COVID-19 research based on scientific literature. Among them, the more direct article is (the origin of COVID-19 leaked by Nature magazine).

It is mentioned in the article that "Nature magazine in 2013 was completed by Ge Xingyi and other three people (noted as *). As usual, the person in charge was at the end, and the corresponding author, Shi Zhengli. Translated into Chinese as: "Isolate and identify Sas-like bat coronavirus, which uses ACE2 receptor". Note that the current epidemic Wuhan pneumonia virus directly attacks humans, which is the ACE2 receptor. Undoubtedly, in 2013, Shi Zhengli achieved great success in this major, and also attracted many peers as collaborators to continue her research on novel coronavirus... Many people are unwilling to mention the first article in the Nature magazine, but only this article in Natural Medicine. In this way, it seems that most of the viruses are caused by Americans, although the title of the article is to warn of the dangers of COVID-19. However, the first article in Nature magazine is the basis of the second article, and the second article is a follow-up report of the "source of the virus". Therefore, the first article cited in the second article of Natural Medicine is Shi Zhengli's article in 2013, "Isolation and Identification of Sas-like Bat Coronavirus, which uses ACE2 Receptor". Interested netizens can continue to refer to the full text introduction.

It is an undeniable fact that the "story of friendship and cooperation between China and the United States" has caused a great disaster for mankind. The truth about the cause of the incident has been tried to be concealed and covered up by some forces. From the scientific papers above, it can be seen that the original intention of scientists is to "warn the dangers of COVID-19", but they underestimate the manipulation of the black hands and evil forces behind them. There is not much doubt that the NIH lacks serious qualification assessment and supervision of partners, and indiscriminately subsidizes. The funded party, knowing that there were military gangsters behind it, deliberately deceived the partners, and desperately blamed it afterwards to cover up the truth of the epidemic. In the end, the novel coronavirus spread to the whole world, triggering a global epidemic.

During President Trump's first term, he directly said that the virus came from China, which is an objective description based on facts. Some Chinese, thinking that they have hurt themselves, have more or less participated in the blame-shifting campaign. Which onion are you? What does the spring and autumn dream of the imperial court have nothing to do with you? In fact, Chinese people and overseas Chinese are also innocent victims and should not be buried in the imperial court. There is no doubt that there are also people in the United States who sell their souls for money or interests, and they have been colluding with various evil forces. On December 15, 2024, the British Sun reported that since October 2019, the Joint Chiefs of Staff of the United States have reported many reports that the virus had been leaked in the Wuhan P4 biological laboratory of the Communist Party of China, and the news was later suppressed. However, under the condition of open information, most people are bound by the law, and the truth will eventually be exposed or tried.

The arrival of the New Year of 2025 has made the whole world uncomfortable and unforgettable, because Trump was re-elected, and the time was ripe to thoroughly investigate the truth of the plague virus. The report of the U.S. Congress on the virus was released, and the World Health Organization also began to strongly demand that Beijing provide the truth about the beginning of the Great Plague. Seeing that China and the United States are not friendly and cooperate, the life of the imperial court may be dumped by Russia, so the essay collection should be released quickly. It is useless to say that friendly cooperation is useless. Ordinary Chinese are not the same as the political party that created the virus. Separation and farewell from evil are the common values of human civilization.
